

Expedition leader - Will Self

Will Self has been exploring this part of Argyll since childhood, much of it by sea. He has been a keen paddler since he was twelve. Will has led cultural exchange programmes around the world including expeditions by dug out canoe up the west coast of Madagascar. His work in rural development in the highlands and islands has a strong wildlife element. With a background in Natural Resources and from his many years working with subsistence communities in South Asia and Madagascar he brings fresh eyes to living with and from nature, as people did here until recently.

See some work he has been involved in at www.feedbackmadagascar.org and www.dalriadaproject.org